

.5.

Alexander Malykhin

SELF-DIRECTED LEARNING ACTIVITIES MANAGEMENT AND SELF-MANAGEMENT FOR STUDENTS OF HIGHER TEACHER TRAINING INSTITUTIONS

The article illuminates some specific peculiarities of self-directed learning activities management and self-management for students of higher teacher training institutions. The author chooses 5 methodological tenets that form the system of managing students' cognitive activities at a higher teacher's training institution. Concerning self-directed organizing and managing students' learning activities at higher teacher training institutions, a goal-oriented-curriculum approach is recognized as the most valuable one.

Key words: management, self-management, organizing, self-directed learning activities, higher teacher's training institution.

[5, 2].

“ ”;

();

); (); ();

); ();

; ; -

(); -

; (); -

); -

); (); -

); ();

);

([5].

” [2, 87].

” [4].

