
70-

[: 9].

[4,

.161].

[: 10].

"

1. [] / . - (2009 .): http://www.nbuv.gov.ua/portal/Soc_Gum/doksa/2006_10/367-390.pdf
2. / . . - .: , 1997. - 202 .
3. / . - .: , 1991. - 420 c.
4. [. . .] - : , 2010. - 352 .
5. / . // . - 1988. - 4. - . 135-152.
6. / . . // : , 1987. - . 133-163.
7. / . . // : [c . . .] - .: « . . . » - 2001. - I. - . 48-67.
8. " . . . " , 2003. - 605 . / . . ; [. . .] - .: .
9. / . . - .: , 1998. - 234 .
10. / . . - .: , 2000. - 622 .
11. : / . . - .: , 1985. - 344 .
12. / . - .: , 2002 . - 400 .
13. : / . . - .: , 1993. - 447 .
14. ; [.] - .: " . . . " , 1994. - 333 .
15. / . . // . - .: , 1991. - . 215-255.

Summary

Tsyntyla O. Anthropological Hermeneutic Origins of Philosophy and Its Methodological Possibilities. Hermeneutic philosophy is examined in terms of its anthropological origins as well as its methodological potential associated with human dimension of scientific knowledge. Keywords: hermeneutics, methodology, interpretation, anthropology, anthropological philosophy, phenomenology, epistemology, subjectivism, objectivism.