
[2, .363].

[3, .53].

«
» [4, p. 184].

[5, .17].

[6, .341].

«
» [6, .342].

« - »

[7, . 175].

[8, . 257].

()

[9, . 39].

1815 .

2013 . – 2014 .,

-
- « ».
1. : / [, 2003. – 1312 .
2. / // : « .- » , 1902. – . 328-364.
3. , 1896. – 64 .
4. Sullivan H. St. The Psychiatric Interview / Harry Stack Sullivan. – New York : W.W.Norton & Co., 1954. – 246 p.
5. / ; [. . .] . – . : - . – . : , 1997. – 384 .
6. / ; [. . .] . – . : , 1991. – 527 . – (. . .).
7. / . . . ; [.] . – . : - , 2010. – 640 .
8. / . – 2- – . : - , 1989. – 496 .
9. / ; [. , . . .] . – . : - , 2004. – 336 .

Summary

Kovtun N. The Interdependence of the Social Apathy and Will Activity of a Person and Society. In the article social apathy is treated as a state of indifference, social and psychological passivity to the reality phenomena. It is stated that in post-industrial society the absence of social, particularly will activity, reluctance to make decisions are the norms of a human existence. But in some cases social apathy is the way of adaptation of a person and social growth to changing social reality, alongside with it excessive social activity is the factor of physical and spiritual exhaustion of a person. The interdependence of the social apathy and violence is stated. The analysis of the background of the individual and social apathy is emphasized in the research work. Alongside with it the peculiarities of the formation factors of the social apathy in Western post-industrial society are revealed. Keywords: social apathy, social activity, will, will activity, person, society.