

GISAP:

ECONOMICS, JURISPRUDENCE AND MANAGEMENT

International Academy of Science and Higher Education
London, United Kingdom
International Scientific Analytical Project

№1 | May 2013

Expert group:

Expert group: Gabriella Zanatti (Argentina), Edson Carlos Ferreira (Brazil), Barabaner Hanon Zelikovich (Estonia), Mari Heikkinen (Finland), Chiladze George (Georgia), Kazbekov Beket (Kazakhstan), Asanova Natalia, Groshev Igor, Korotkova Tatyana, Lyapina Innara, Petrukhina Elena, Puzikov Ruslan, Romanovich Lyudmila, Sibirskaya Elena, Zulfugarzade Taimur (Russia), Ustenko Andrey (Ukraine)

Dear readers!

The world is ruled by economists, managers and lawyers – this settled opinion was formed in last decades. Such circumstance is predefined by dominant humanitarian part of the general world outlook of a man and by heightened interest to social sciences from the side of the scientific community. Anyway objective everyday reality is the most significant factor in this concern: we live in the world of democratic processes and conditionally declared and adopted (but abstract in their inner content) values. In modern reality private wellbeing is almost impossible in conditions of the surrounding social decay. It is undoubtedly possible to be wealthy and powerful in poor and undeveloped country but such wellbeing can only satisfy inadequate persons. Acceptance of the global character and significance of social development, based on the equality of the society members and fair distribution of resources – this is an ideological basis of modern democracy.

As a system of values, democracy would be impossible without legal protection. As an instrument of regulation of social processes of all kinds and levels, the democracy would not be very effective without special management methodology. The society at last: major part of its total activity is directed to consumption of various goods. It wouldn't be able to survive without the science-based structure of production, distribution and redistribution of limited resources. Reasonable interaction of the stated fields of knowledge and instruments of regulation allowed building an optimal system of satisfaction of social needs, ensuring the global progress nowadays. Obviously such a complicated system depends on the juridical, economic and management scientific paradigm and a whole army of practitioners, ensuring its practical implementation.

Thomas Morgan
Head of the IASHE International Projects Department
May 08, 2013, London, UK

GISAP: Economics, Jurisprudence and Management
Chief Editor – J.D., Prof., Acad. Pavlov V.V.

Copyright © 2013 IASHE

Design: Yury Skoblikov, Helena Grigorieva, Alexander Belinsky

Published and printed by the International Academy of Science and Higher Education (IASHE) 1 Kings Avenue, London, N21 1PQ, United Kingdom.

Phone: +442032899949, e-mail: office@gisap.eu, web: <http://gisap.eu>

- ! No part of this magazine, including text, illustrations or any other elements may be used or reproduced in any way without
- the permission of the publisher or/and the author of the appropriate article.