

GISAP: PHILOLOGICAL SCIENCES

International Academy of Science and Higher Education
London, Great Britain
International Scientific Analytical Project

№1 | March 2013

Expert group:

Marianna Balasanyan (Georgia), Diana Ismailova (Kazakhstan), Galina Kontsevaya (Republic of Belarus), Elena Kosykh, Marina Zheltukhina, Maria Shemyakina, Alexandra Zalevskaya (Russia), Magdalena Petrova Kostova-Pananyotova, Mariyana Parzulova (Bulgaria), Jemal Mehmed (Turkey)

Dear readers!

Philology is a very capacious, specific and at the same time substantial concept. It seems that we are talking about a complex of sciences dealing with the analysis of language literature. At the same time however, not only written and oral verbal environment can act as an object of philological studies, but also cultural and historical scenes and facts, expressed in verbal form, as well as the creativity – an instrument of creation of literary works and realization of talents from different epochs.

At last, philology is love! And it is not just a verbal construction. It is the love to life and to the surrounding world! This love is expressed by brilliant words of writers and poets in the most emotional and colorful form. It is the language that ensures the accumulation, storage, interpretation and intergenerational transfer of cultural traditions and information which forms the mental basis of the humanity. Word is not just a product of human intellect and an instrument of an image-conceptual thinking. Without a word there would be nothing that could form a world of a modern man.

With respect and hope for effective cooperation, - Thomas Morgan
March 13, 2013, London, UK

GISAP: Philological Sciences
Chief Editor – J.D., Prof., Acad. Pavlov V.V.

Copyright © 2013 IASHE

Design: Yury Skoblikov, Helena Grigorieva, Alexander Belinsky

Published and printed by the International Academy of Science and Higher Education (IASHE) Kings Avenue, London, N21 1PQ, United Kingdom.

Phone: +442032899949, e-mail: office@gisap.eu, web: <http://gisap.eu>

! No part of this magazine, including text, illustrations or any other elements may be used or reproduced in any way without the permission of the publisher or/and the author of the appropriate article.