

ANNOTATION

DIDACTICS AND METODICS

G. Avcinnikova

Profile differentiation of schoolchildren studying abroad and in Ukraine

The article is devoted to the peculiarities of educational process profiling in this country and abroad. The author has especially analyzed the specificity and experience of the functioning of profile education in the USA. The problems of settling and development of profile educational differentiation in Ukraine are also characterized.

Key words: profile education, schoolchildren, educational process, types of profile education.

O. Barninets

The classification of playing methods of the history teaching from the point of view of the competent way

The article gives an analysis of the existing classification of playing methods on the history lessons. Also it proposes the classification in which presence/lack of imitation is taken as defining element of the game. The article has an attempt to determine the effectiveness of didactic games in forming specific historical competences.

Key words: didactic game, classification, historical competence, imitation, role (business, retrospective) and training games.

N. Borisenko

Model of training future teachers of technologies to forming an artistical and technical abilities for students of basic school

In the article description of model of preparation future teachers of technologies is presented to forming of artistical and technical abilities for the students of basic school. Maintenance of every component of the developed model is examined from position of its functioning.

Key words: model, professional training, teacher of technologies.

N. Grytsai

Lectures of studying biology methodology as the basis of future teachers' individual methodic style formation

In the article the lecture as the form of studying process organization is characterized, the peculiarities of the lectures in methodology of biology studying are enlighten. The meaning of the lectures during the process of the future biology teachers' professional training as the basis of the students' individual methodic style formation is discovered.

Key words: methodology of biology studying, lectures, methodic training, professional training of the future teachers, individual methodic style.

Y. Zhylyayeva

Project method in foreign language teacher vocational training: peculiarities of implementation

The article studies main organizational peculiarities of introducing the project method into foreign language teacher vocational training. Approaches to formulating project tasks are described, and the demands to project work are analyzed in the context of demands to professional development of an FL teacher.

Key words: project method, project work, professional development of a foreign language teacher.

T. Ibragimov

About didactic terms of individual works of external student

The results of pedagogical researches of experimental group are examined in the article, by the following developed technology, foreseeing a didactic complex with controlled from distance custom controls and realization of the multimedia of the system created by us in a student audience.

Key words: individual work, controlled from distance teaching, extra-mural form.

G. Ibragimova

Innovative methods of organization individual work of students of extra-mural form

In the article the elements of innovative methods are examined promoting efficiency of individual work of extra-mural form student of teaching. The possibility of videoinformation realization created by us is shown as multimedia of appendixes to the didactic complex at the extra-mural form of teaching.

Key words: individual work, extra-mural form of teaching, innovative methods.

K. Musaev

Methodical aspects of the future teacher of extracurricular school establishments of education

The article considers the methodological basis of training primary school teachers in extracurricular activities. The state and problems of preparation of specialists is investigated for extracurricular establishments, the analysis of composition of pedagogical staff is conducted and the ways of problems overcoming are exposed.

Key words: extracurricular education; methodical work in extracurricular establishments; personality qualities of leader of extracurricular establishment.

I. Protsenko

Forming of professionally-creative abilities of future teacher

In the article from positions of modern pedagogic the systemic and humanistic approach forming to professionally-creative abilities of future teacher in the heuristic educating is considered. The worked out didactic model represents in maintenance of these approaches organization of stage-by-stage students capture by basic professional abilities in the process of heuristic dialogue cooperation.

Key words: systemic approach, humanistic approach, heuristic studies, heuristic dialogue cooperation, professionally-creative abilities.

L. Siryk

Socratic method and its modernization in the education of the USA

The article touches upon the points of views of American teachers at modern approaches to the heuristic learning as innovative technology of education. The features of socratic method are determined in the heuristic learning. It is analyzed practical using of this method in the educational establishments of the USA.

Key words: heuristic learning, innovative technology, socratic method, a socratic teacher.

O. Furman

The problem activation of students educational and cognitive activity

In the article the problem activation of students educational and cognitive activity opens up, which always was and remains actual. An author marks that activation of educational and cognitive activity consists of teacher purposeful activity with the purpose of development and application of such maintenance, forms, methods, receptions and facilities of studying, which are instrumental in the increase of cognitive interest, activity, creation, independence, in the receipt of knowledge, forming of abilities and skills, their use in practice.

Key words: activation, educational-cognitive activity, cognitive interest, cognitive activity.

I. Shamray

Analytical activity in the context of students' professional training in higher pedagogical educational establishments

The article describes the importance of analytical activity in the structure of students' professional training in higher pedagogical educational establishments. The importance of disciplines integrating of professional and social-educational cycle for the development of intellectual potential of students is proved. The structure of students' analytical activity and the criteria for determining the level of its formation is defined.

Key words: analytical activity, analytical skills, pedagogical analysis, introspection, professional training.

NEW TECHNOLOGIES

A. Berykhanova, A. Beikytova

The topicality of the future teacher's readiness to modern pedagogical technologies using

The topicality of the future teacher's readiness to modern pedagogical technologies using is described in the article, advantages of modern pedagogical technologies are investigated. It is proved that on the base of modern pedagogical technologies using, the organization of students' collective and cognitive activity is reached. Students' self-organizational process, such as self-actualization, self-realization, self-estimation are formed, doublesided character of pedagogical process, which helps to teacher's and student's simultaneous self-realization is realized.

Key words: education, pedagogical technology, methodology, methods, innovation, professional training.

O. Zubchenko

Problems of the initial teacher training in ICT at modern stage

The article proves the necessity of the training of future teachers for using of information and communication technologies in education. The problems of the implementation of ICT in the system of teacher university education at modern stage are revealed. The ways of their solution are offered by example of Great Britain, which is the recognized world leader in this sphere.

Key words: information and communication technologies, problems of ICT implementation, compulsory and elective courses in ICT, pedagogical education.

Y. Lomnytskyj, A. Jarema

The actual problems of modern teacher's preparation in order to use project-technological teaching system in the process of form-building and designing of small box

The analysis of historical development of boxes' construction is conducted; the modern classification of boxes is determined; the using of boxes' form-building and designing with help of three-faceted drooved carving is reasonable in this article.

Key words: projecting, small box, form-building, three-faceted grooved carving.

O. Malyshevskiy

The training of future teachers of physics and mathematical specialities for the usage of ICT

It is shown the importance of training teachers to use information technology in the professional activities. The pedagogical aims are defined, achieving which will methodically appropriate the usage of ICT in the preparation of future teachers. The basic stages of the process of preparing future teachers are characterized to use ICT when working with students.

Key words: informatization of education, ICT, training students to use ICT.

N. Prjadko

Innovative technologies of work with students in system of the competent approach

In article innovative forms of work with students in the system of preparation of the future expert taking into account the competent approach are considered. Forms and methods of work directed to students' cognitive activity development are presented.

Key words: the competent approach, group forms of work, the analysis of concrete situations.

N. Sivolobova

Role of educational fundraising in innovative activity of high schools

In given article the author considers a role of educational fundraising in innovative activity of higher educational institutions, interaction with the enterprises as the mechanism of additional financing of educational institution, legal bases of interaction of high school and the enterprise.

Key words: fundraising, innovative activity, interaction of high school and the enterprise.

O. Sukhovirs'kyi

Use of the Internet in the process of looking for information for the students' researches in Pedagogics

The article deals with the ways of finding information for students' researches in pedagogics using information and communication technologies (search at the sites of Vernadsky National Library, the Academy of Pedagogical Sciences of Ukraine, national libraries of other countries, online bookstores, Ministry of Education and Science of Ukraine, schools, Universities, teaching associations, electronic publications, Google Scholar service, etc.). Practical recommendations for the selection of scientific sources on the Internet have been offered. Advantages and disadvantages of using publicly available scientific information from electronic sources have been pointed out.

Key words: Internet, research, diploma project, search for information.

THE FORMATION OF PROFESSIONAL COMPETENCE

T. Bondarenko

Forming of the special methodological competence as the greatest index of professional readiness of a teacher of biology

The problems of determination of characteristic signs and structure of methodological competence of the future teachers of biology are examined in the article. It is carried out substantiation ways of certain competence forming during the study of teaching methods of biology in higher educational establishments.

Key words: competence, competent approach, methodological competence, methodology.

E. Dolinsky

Components, criteria and levels of communicative competence of the future translators

This article describes the nature of communicative competence of translators. The structure of this concept is analysed. The structure of communicative competence of the future translators as the unity of four components – language, speech, sociocultural, strategic and corresponding criteria of their estimation is developed (the degree of language competence, the degree of speech competence, the degree of culturological, background knowledge, the degree of strategic competence). This helps to determine the appropriate levels of communicative competence (low, medium, high).

Key words: competence, communicative competence, training, translation, components, criteria, levels of communicative competence, the competence approach.

N. Zinchuk, V. Zinchuk

Technology aspects of analytical competence of future specialist's development in higher educational institutions

In the article the attention is given to a substantiation of technological aspects of analytical competence formation of the future specialists during their training in higher school institutions, namely: the essence of analytical competence is opened, technological aspects of its formation are found out, productivity of the suggested pedagogical influence on analytical competence formation is proved.

Key words: competence, analytical competence, teacher education, technology of analytical competence development in higher educational institutions.

A. Korostelev

The formation of professional competence of the future managers in the conditions of equifinality analytical findings

In the current context, characterized by high dynamism and uncertainty in the recessionary situation changes in the market economy are increasing demands on the professional competence of managers at various levels, and rank as ability to analytically justify and take appropriate decisions in this situation.

Key words: competence, the components of professional competence, administrative decisions, equifinality.

M. Prihodi

Using the competence approach for the preparation of teachers of profile teaching

The article deals with aspects of improving the training of future teachers of technology for the specialized education of students of secondary schools based on the study of various aspects of the competence approach. The analysis of existing competence models of education is worked out.

Key words: competence approach, a teacher of technology, specialized education.

N. Savchenko

Image of modern teacher; topicality and perspectives of scientific investigations

In the article the views of native and foreign psychologists and teachers on the concept «image» are analyzed, its definitions due to direction of activity. Basic aspects of problem of teacher's image forming are determined. Pre-conditions of research carrying out of teacher of primary classes professional image are distinguished, perspective directions of the next scientific investigations in the branch of pedagogical imagiology are outlined.

Key words: modern teacher, image, imagiology.

L. Tarantsei

The formation of the professional competence of junior school teachers in the field of optimization of confidential relations with younger schoolchildren

In the article it is presented author's experience of confidential relations using between individuals of educational process with the aim of its humanitarization. The problem of forming of teacher's of junior school professional preparedness in the field of confidential relations with younger schoolchildren optimization from positions of competence approach. Results of SRW are described in the theoretical models of forming of junior school teacher's professional in the field of confidential relations with younger schoolchildren, methodology of this model realization in the process of pedagogical staff professional preparation. The article shows the results of empiric data analysis received in the process of practical model realization in the preparation practice of students of Grogno State university named by Yanka Kupala (Belarus Republic).

Key words: professional competence, future teacher, elementary classes, confidential relations.

S. Tkachuk

The psychological and pedagogical aspects of preparation of modern teacher of technological education

In the article the functions of teacher open up in the process of studies and education of students taking into account a specific them individual and age-old development, that assist forming of personality of schoolboy, him civil position, scientific, ecological and economic literacy, to work, professional self-determination. The psychologically-pedagogical aspects of preparation of modern teacher of technological education are analysed and tasks that belong modern general establishments to him are determined.

Key words: teacher, students, educational-educator process, technological education, the psychologically-pedagogical preparation.

O. Yarygin

Model competence as a method

The paper presents a model of competence, based on systems theory and the theory of algorithms. On the basis of the proposed model the relationship of competence components is revealed, as an analog computational method for Knut. It is shown that the properties that are measured in the model meet the requirements for the competence.

Key words: computational method, systems theory, a model of competence, expertise, knowledge and motivation.

M. Kostsel'niak, K. Pzhevlots'ka

Method of educational project as the way of competence obtaining

This article at the very beginning describes the genesis and the historical background of the project method. It presents that method in the context of other didactic methods, emphasizing its main characteristics, types and phases. The authors concentrate on competencies and specific skills, which the students can develop while working in project group, at the same time being aware of difficulties possible to occur. Moreover the article includes information about one particular example of using the project method in Poland – e-School Wielkopolska – creative student.

Key words: didactic methods, activation method, project method, educational project, competencies, ICT, interdisciplinarity, participatory approach, student as researcher, group work.

EDUCATIONAL ASPECTS OF PREPARATION

O. Demchenko

The scientific thesaurus of basic concepts of teachers self-organization in professional activity

The etymological and synergetic bases of understanding of the general matter of a category «self-organization» are analysed, its basic terminological determinants are found out, the essence of a definition «self-organization of the teacher in professional work» is specified and its cultural and educational, personal and structure functional thesaurus are distinguished.

Key words: the thesaurus, self-organization, self-organization of the teacher in professional work, cultural self-identification, self-education, personal self-modification, professional self-organization qualities.

A. Zinchenko

Tasks and functions of the technologies teachers in the common professional orientation work with the vocational educational establishments

The article deals with the tasks and functions of the technologies teachers activity aimed at maintaining the common professional orientation work of the school with the vocational educational establishments for forming the pupils interest to the working professions.

Key words: technologies teacher, professional training, professional orientation, professional functions, working professions.

A. Zinchenko

The model of communicative tolerance forming of students of pedagogical specialities of universities in the process of humanitarian preparation

In the article the contents of target, methodological, organizational, factorial, control and valuation, effective components of author's model of pedagogical system of communicative tolerance formation of students of pedagogical specialities of universities in the process of humanitarian preparation is opened.

Key words: model of pedagogical system, communicative tolerance, humanitarian preparation, the future teacher.

V. Lesovoy

Problems in students' social and psychological adaptation under the conditions of financial crisis

In Ukraine the modern period is characterized by difficult political, economic, spiritual and other processes. The actuality of the information presented in the article is substantiated by the topical problems in social and psychological adaptation of high school students under the conditions of the financial crisis which in turn is a very important link in the system of improvement of high education in Ukraine.

Key words: adaptation of students, socialization, diagnostics by K. Rodgers and R. Diamond.

S. Savchenko

Essence and functions of practice psychologist diagnostic and advisory work in secondary school

The purpose and structure of psychological services, as well as target direction and short content of the functions of the diagnostic and advisory activity of practical psychology in a secondary school, on the basis of which the author's interpretation of the nature of its diagnostic and advisory work and an algorithm for its complex organization is highlight.

Key words: psychological service, a practical psychologist, secondary school, diagnostic functions, advisory functions, diagnostic and advisory work.

I. Semina

The problem of informative abilities development of future teachers

In article on the basis of the theoretical analysis and author's personal experience the urgency of the presented problem is proved, and the psychological and pedagogical conditions providing efficiency of informative abilities development of students – future teachers are considered.

Key words: informative abilities, students, development, training process, professional development of mental functions.

S. Sovhira

Effective forms of environmental protection work

The problems of effective forms of environmental protection introduction in practice of educational establishments are described. Agitating and practical actions, contests, festivals, exhibitions, weeks of ecology, championats, excursions, radical environmental protection technology are outlined. The efficacy of technology of project environmental protection activity is proved.

Key words: environmental protection work, activity of environmental protection technology, a form of environmental work.

THE HISTORY OF PEDAGOGICAL EDUCATION

A. Boyko

Effect of Lviv state teachers seminary to the formation of personality Konstantiny Malitskoyi

The article analyzes one of the life periods of Ukrainian educators, children's writer Konstantin Malits'koi – studying at Lviv State Teachers' Seminary. The basic stages of formation and development of the school is outlined. The influence of teachers, educational environment on personality Konstantin Ivanovna, forming its views and beliefs is investigated.

Key words: Constantina Malitskaya, Teaching seminary training, personality formation.

O. Matros

Ivan V. Luchitsky is a teacher, enlightener and public man

The analysis of the vital stages of I. Luchitsky becoming as a teacher, enlightener and public man is carried out in the article. It is set that a scientist brought in a large contribution to development of domestic science and history, and his public and political activity was unchanging sent to claim of democracy and increase of culture of people.

Key words: I. V. Lychitsky, teacher, public man.

L. Orekhova

Development of lingvodidactic ideas in the second half of XIX – first half of XX century

It is proved that the scientific study of pedagogic heritage scholars lingvodidaktov previous generations: F. I. Buslaeva, I. I. Sreznetskaya, S. F. Rusova, K. D. Ushinskogo, M. O. Ribnikovoy, S. T. Shatsky, V. Mirtova, S. H. Chavdarova may contribute successful resolution of our distinguished set of issues. In particular, focusing on their lingvodidactic systems that formed under the soothing influence of the Ukrainian national ideology and ethnic pedagogy, it is possible to achieve significant improvement in the formation of modern linguistic identity, the modern teacher.

Key words: lingvodidactic ideas, historical experience, methodological aspects, the communicative function of speech

P. Tadeyev

The formation and development of the USA legislation in the sphere of gifted children (50–60-years of the XX century)

The article deals with the problem of formation and development of legislative initiatives in the USA in the sphere of gifted children in the XX century. The author analyzes a series of laws adopted by the USA Congress which greatly influenced this branch of education.

Key words: state policy, legislation, gifted children, education of gifted, state.

O. Timets

Retrospective of becoming system of professional geography future teachers preparation (top of XX century)

The question of the history of becoming the system of geography future teachers professional preparation on the top of XX century is considered in this article. The ways and opportunities the geography Education perfection in different social and political conditions are investigated.

Key words: geography Education, preparation of geography future teachers.

THE PROFESSIONAL PREPARATION IN THE CONTEXT OF EUROINTEGRATION

O. Lazarenko

Priority areas of professional foreign language communication in higher education in the UK late XX – XXI century

This article is on a description of the priorities of the development of professional foreign language communication as a component of foreign language education in UK universities late XX – early XXI century. The concept of professional foreign language communication is considered as a special professional interpersonal interaction in information and cognitive contact. It is characterized by innovations in the system feasibility study of professional foreign language communication in UK universities and their educational process.

Key words: priorities, professional foreign language communication, foreign language education, Universities UK, the educational process.

S. Moyseeva

Structural-functional model for training teachers credit transfer system studies

In article it is considered features of structurally functional model of improvement of professional skill of teachers which is based on principles and directions of development of Bolonsky process: such as satisfaction of teachers' needs, meeting their mobility of studying, determination of their own development, getting credits and transfers of educational activity of teachers in credits to test.

The author proposes to bring under the competence of professional educators with the needs and demands of society.

The article highlights the characteristic features of teacher training for credit-transfer system of education: its flexibility, diversity of organizations, for the convenience of the teacher, high efficiency.

Key words: post-diploma education, in-plant training, credit-transfer system, credit units.

N. Opanasenko

The personally oriented approach in preparation of the teacher of an elementary school in conditions of a credit-modular system of training

In the article the personally oriented technologies of training of the future teachers of and elementary school are esteemed during teaching the integrated course «the theory of education. A technique education of activity» on a credit-modular system. Tasks for individual work in the module environment to different themes are suggested.

Key words: the personally oriented approach, technology of training, credit-modular system, learning process.

M. Pashchenko

Module-developing system of education in the forming of the students activity

Module-developing studying raise the quality of future specialists preparation, forms and develops knowledge, skills and abilities on the basis of individual approach to the student's personality and creating of conditions for its self-realization and educational process activation is discovered.

Key words: module-developing, activity of students education.